Our vision is to see individuals and families in Montana flourish, spiritually and economically.

2021: THE YEAR IN REVIEW

When the Going Gets Tough...

Jobs, Education, and Entrepreneurship

Challenging times can make or break a person. An unpredictable economy, affordable housing issues, and continued need for spiritual and physical nourishment pushed our partners toward creative solutions in 2021.

Families and the Vulnerable

Homeless shelters, rescue missions, addiction recovery centers, safe houses, veteran and first responder groups, and job training programs helped many of our Montana neighbors make it through tough times. Many organizations, and the people they serve, thrived.

Christian Outreach and Discipleship

Several of our partners are working with Christian churches and communities throughout the state, serving their neighbors in need. At-risk children are flourishing with the support of adult mentors. Trauma victims are healing. Marriages are being made—or made better. And people are coming together to have conversations on faith, life, and what it means to be human.

Bozeman Arts and Culture

In all, we contributed nearly $9.5 million to our partners this past year. We also are helping our partners develop stronger leadership teams through new tools for executive directors and continued programming for board development.

As we reflect on the past year, we look back with pride on the work you are doing and grace and humility for the many lives changed for the better.

Our better world begins with you.

OUR STORY

When we started the Gianforte Family Foundation in 2004, we couldn't have imagined the specific societal challenges we all would face or the impact we, as a family foundation, might make. We wanted primarily to share our abundant blessings to lift up others, most especially our Montana friends and neighbors in their times of need. Our vision for helping others thrive comes into focus through programs supporting education, entrepreneurship, and jobs. Communities are strengthened as our most vulnerable people and families are provided basic needs and loving support. Spiritual nourishment bolsters those overcoming addiction, trauma, and broken relationships. We are blessed by our ability to give back and humbled by each life changed. Thank you for your help in fulfilling our vision.
